

Effective Golden Questions

- Have you heard of the Mormons?
- Have you wondered why Mormons build temples throughout the world?
- Do you believe that God speaks to prophets today as He did to prophets in the past?
- If there is a question you could ask God, what would it be?
- Have you ever heard of the Book of Mormon?
- What do you believe happens to those people who never hear of Jesus Christ? Are they damned? Or does God have a provision in place to rescue these souls?
- Have you ever wondered why there are no prophets on the earth today? What would you think if I told you that there really are prophets on the earth today?
- Do you believe that marriages and families will continue to be together after this life?
- How do you stay close to God?
- What do you do to ensure that you are living in accordance with the commandments of God?
- Any of the ten survey questions are terrific GQs to ask frequently as well.

There are a limitless number of questions you can ask. Try them out and find the set of questions that work best for you. For me, I found my best GQ questions are

- 1. Have you heard of the Mormons?
- 2. Have you ever asked yourself “Where did I come from? Why am I here on earth? And where am I going after I die?”

I found that these two GQ approaches are thought-provoking enough to get people talking. Getting people to talk is the key. These two questions are also neutral and uncontroversial.
